HIANG takes crown with win over Pound Town

Hawaii Air National Guard (HIANG) broke open a close game with a five-run rally in the bottom of the sixth to defeat 647th Security Forces Squadron (647 SFS) Pound Town, 10-6, and capture the 2013 intramural Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam softball title on July 21 at Millican Field.

Clinging to a 5-4 lead in the bottom of the sixth, HIANG Staff Sgt. Donovan Chikazawa kick started the outburst with an RBI single, his third hit of the day, before clutch hits by Capt. Michael Buendia and Tech. Sgt. John Fukumoto and a sacrifice by Staff Sgt. Eugene Winchester raised the margin to a commanding 10-4 lead.

"You know, again, it's the guys putting it together and coming through at the end," said HIANG pitcher Chief Master Sgt. Vince Ramos, who pitched out of several jams to earn the complete-game decision. "A couple of errors helped us out, too. In the long run, they (Pound Town) were playing real good. It was a tough game."

For HIANG, the win must have seemed like redemption after the team couldn't participate in the inaugural base playoffs two years ago due to a conflict between the postseason and the guard's duty schedule.

That first base championship season ended with Pound Town beating Navy Information Operations Command Hawaii for the title.

Despite having to win on the last day of the regular season to secure their spot in the playoffs this year, HIANG came into the postseason feeling confident about their chances.

"We always got a shot," Ramos said. "When it's time to put up, the guys always come through. That's what's good about the guys."

Against their old Hickam nemesis 647 SFS, HIANG scored the first two runs of the game in the first inning to get out to a quick lead.

Buendia led off the bottom of the first with a single and after one out was followed up by another single by Winchester to put two runners on.

With both runners on the move, Staff Sgt. Mike Victorino lined a base hit to drive in both teammates.

Ramos pitched two shutout innings to preserve the two-run lead, but in the third inning, Pound Town started living up to their name.

With one out, Pound Town rapped out three singles in a row before Staff Sgt. Steve Slagle recorded another base hit to drive in two runs.

The next batter, Master Sgt. Sam Nelson, flied out to right, but a throwing error to third base allowed another run to score and put Pound Town ahead at 3-2.

However, the lead was short lived as the HIANG pulled back out in front in the bottom of the frame on a single by Tech. Sgt. Charlie McKintosh that drove in Fukumoto and Winchester after both singled with one out.

Winchester gave the HIANG a two-run lead when, in the bottom of the fifth with two out, he blasted a shot over the left-field fence for the only home run of the game.

In the top of the sixth, Pound Town inched closer when Airman 1st Class Cory Prater hit a single to drive in Nelson for the team's fourth run of the game.

This, though, wasn't one that the HIANG was willing to let get away.

After Chikazawa drove in the first run in the bottom of the sixth, HIANG loaded the bases with only one out before Buendia rocketed a line shot off the glove of Nelson at second to drive in another run.

Then Fukumoto added two more runs on a single to make it 9-4, with Winchester driving in the final tally with a sacrifice.

"That felt great," said Ramos about the six-run cushion he inherited going into the top of the seventh. "All we had to do was get the first out. Once you get the first out, all you do is pitch the ball and let the guys do the work."

The strategy was worked to perfection, as Ramos got the leadoff hitter Department of Defense civilian Eddie Silva to fly out to center-field.

Although Pound Town got RBI singles from Prater and Nelson later in the inning, Ramos induced back-to-back fly outs to end the game.

Airman 1st Class Tweeter Riddle, who went three-for-four and had one of those hits in the top of the seventh to keep Pound Town alive, said that although his team came up short, he was proud of the way the players battled from the start of the season.

He said that the team's inability to capitalize with men on base might have cost Pound Town the title.

Pound Town loaded the bases in the top of the second and third innings, but managed to get only three runs out of the frames combined.

"That was our biggest problem in the championship game and most of the whole tournament - leaving people on base," Riddle admitted.

"But, you know, we can't really feel too bad after getting here when most people didn't think we're going to be here. We started fighting back and had a good chance to come back, just didn't follow through."

While Ramos had been a member of many HIANG championship teams in the past at Hickam, he said that this one just might be the sweetest.

"Because this is joint base, and this is the first time we took joint base," he said. "Navy guys got some good teams out there."

While this might be the team's first base championship, Ramos said he and his teammates will be back for more.

"Well, we're going to try again," he said. "We always bring back the same guys and work together. We know everybody's strengths and weaknesses. We work it out, and that's what makes it good for us."

Kunia soccer squad Rochefort wins championship

Randy Dela Cruz

It's a new Kunia soccer squad, but the results ended up the same as the team's old dynasty: championship.

Last season, the Kunia Gallos disbanded after capturing their second consecutive joint base intramural soccer title, but this year, a new Kunia team nicknamed "Rochefort" appeared as a late entry in the league's Gold Division.

While this year's Kunia team struggled through its first six games of the season, Rochefort, under the leadership of former Gallos team captain Cryptologic Technician (Interpretive) 1st Class Steven Bloom, streaked through the rest of the season. On July 20 at Ward Field, they added another crown to the command's growing trophy case by defeating 67th Network Warfare Wing (67 NWW), 3-0, to capture the 2013 Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam intramural soccer championship.

Bloom, who was among only three former Gallos players on the Rochefort roster, played on Gallos teams that won five intramural crowns, two summer championships and a RIMPAC title.

Although he cherishes each of the championships, he said this one just might be the most satisfying victory of them all.

"This one is really special," he acknowledged. "I didn't even think this season was going to happen. I wasn't even going to play. Really, it's the tradition of the past players. Around March, April, I started getting calls from the old players about how's the team looking this year. That got me pumped up."

With so many new players to coordinate, Bloom began to doubt that this year's team had the right stuff after starting off with a record of 2-2-2.

However, following that moment of uncertainty, Rochefort started putting things together and never lost another game for the rest of the season.

"I think one of the big things was that we had myself, Noel (Cryptologic Technician (Interpretive) 2nd Class Allen Noel) that have been through this many times in the past. And we have some younger players that really looked to that. Then we had guys like Luis (Electrician's Mate 1st Class Luis Zamora) comes on late in the season. He's a great player."

If Zamora's value to the team wasn't fully understood during the regular season, he made everybody realize it during the playoffs, where the striker made his presence known.

Zamora scored the team's only goal in a semifinal win over the 735th Air Mobility Squadron (735 AMS) and then really stepped into the spotlight in the championship game, where he scored all three of Kunia's goals.

"It was a team effort," said Zamora, who downplayed his role in the win. "All of us decided to come out here and come away with the championship. I don't think this was an individual effort, it was all as a team."

After the teams entered halftime knotted up in a 0-0 tie, Zamora kicked in the first score on a ball near the goal that ricocheted off two players before going into the net.

The Kunia striker got his second goal on a breakaway down the right sideline before he put the game away with goal No. 3 on a straightaway shot near 67 NWW goalkeeper Staff Sgt. Christopher Perez.

"In the first half, we were making bad passes and turning over the ball too much," he admitted. "So we came away in the second half, connecting more and looking for each other. And I think that ultimately gave us the win."

Perez, who anchored the 67 NWW's tough backfield defense, said that Kunia just managed to take advantage of the opportunities in the second half.

Still, he was proud of his team for making it to the championship game.

"It was very tough competition, so it was great to be here," he said.

Meanwhile, Bloom said that while he changed his mind about playing this year, he would definitely call it quits this time around.

"If you see me here next year, tell me to go home," he said with a laugh. "If the guys want to keep playing, it's definitely up to them. I'm sorry to say, but I have to walk away right now."

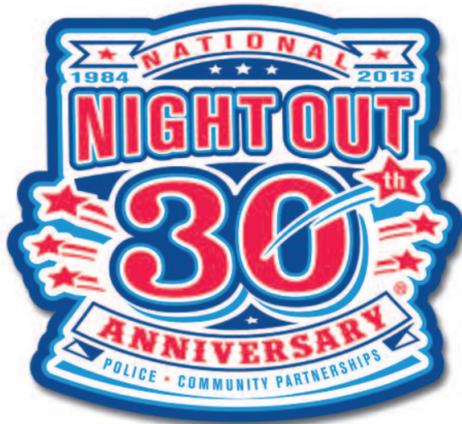

Hickam Communities plans National Night Out

Hickam Communities

Hickam Communities and the National Association of Town Watch will hold the annual "National Night Out" block party celebration from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Aug. 6 at Ka Makani Community Center, joint base.

Activities for families are planned with interactive safety demonstrations, contests, games, door prizes, balloon twisting, air-brush tattoos, a kiddie bounce house, and food. The event will include a K-9 demonstration by base security forces. An ice cream truck will be on hand.

National Night Out is an effort across the country, involving law enforcement partners and neighborhoods who join forces to heighten crime prevention awareness. The effort also generates support for and participation in local anti-crime efforts and strengthens neighborhood spirit and police/community partnerships.

The deadline for Hickam Communities' residents to R.S.V.P. for the event is July 31 to NNO@hickamcommunities.com. Hickam Communities asks residents to include the number of adults and number of children attending, due to a limit on attendance.

HIANG triumphs over PACOM/JIOC in straight sets

Randy Dela Cruz

Sports Editor

Hawaii Air National Guard (HIANG) fought off a strong effort by Pacific Command/Joint Intelligence Operation Center (PACOM/JIOC) to earn a tough straight-set victory, 25-16 and 25-17, on July 18 at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Fitness Center.

The win raised HIANG's record to 3-0 and kept them in a tie at the top of the Gold Division with Joint Prisoner of War/Missing in Action Accounting Command (JPAC), while PACOM/JIOC saw their record fall to 1-2.

"I think we played very well as a team," said HIANG team captain Lt. Col. Rick Cox about the squad's hard-earned win. "We were subbing everybody in and everybody on our team did an excellent job, coming together and eliminating errors. Good passes, good hits, just consistent volleyball all the way around."

The first set got off to a slow start for both teams with the score tied at 2-2 and all of the tallies coming off service errors.

After PACOM/JIOC took the lead, a kill by Tech. Sgt. Stephen Lorenzo retied the score at 3-3 before the HIANG, with Lorenzo holding service, went on a five-point run to take an 8-3 advantage.

PACOM/JIOC fought back and, after falling behind 17-9 on another kill by Lorenzo, pulled to within six at 22-16.

However, that was as far as it would go for PACOM/JIOC as HIANG closed out the first set on a three-point run, which was punctuated by a set-ending kill from Tech. Sgt. Leland Lealaitafea.

The second set was even closer as both teams battled back and forth with the lead changing hands six times before coming to a 17-17 deadlock.

A kill by Staff Sgt. Alan Michael Warner put the HIANG ahead at 18-17, and then the team gave the ball to Cox for service.

Cox immediately went to work and handcuffed PACOM/JIOC with his overhead slams to run the table for a 25-17 set-and-match win.

"I just wanted the game to end in two, so I decided to bring out some heat," Cox said. "I wasn't trying to aim at any particular person. I just tried to spread it out. I was trying to put as much heat on the ball, spin on the ball and making the ball knuckle and move as much as I could and it seemed to work at the end."

Warner, who started off the game-ending rally with a kill, added another one during the eight-point stretch.

After putting his team on top with a kill, Warner said that he wasn't sure if his slam was the catalyst for the rally.

"I wasn't really focused so much on the momentum shift," he noted. "I just wanted to keep our ball control, keep our focus and just finish the game."

Clinging to a one-point lead and with the game still up in the air, Warner said that he couldn't have asked for a better player than Cox to hold service.

"We were very comfortable with that," Warner said. "He's our coach, he's our leader, he makes all the calls on the court, and we stand by and support all the decisions he makes. And we execute well when he makes those calls."

The HIANG's 3-0 start seems to indicate that the team is going to make a serious bid to get back to the top of the intramural volleyball league.

Last season, HIANG, for the first time in 10 years, didn't finish with a base title.

Both Cox and Warner agree that the HIANG is back and ready to compete.

"We have some very good players, so it's hard to lose when you have such talent," Cox said. "Those guys are amazing. I just feel fortunate that I play with them and not against them."

Warner added, "We're going to be very competitive. We realize last year that we weren't given the opportunity to continue our tradition of victory and winning. So this year, we're going to bring it."

Renovations, summer reading program highlight library re-opening

Active-duty military members, their families, retirees and Department of Defense civilians can experience some long-awaited improvements at the Hickam Library at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam.

Patrons celebrated the library's re-opening at a July 20 ceremony. Col. David Kirkendall, deputy joint base commander, opened the festivities with Phyllis Frenzel, library director.

Kirkendall told the crowd in attendance of the importance of having a quality facility and program.

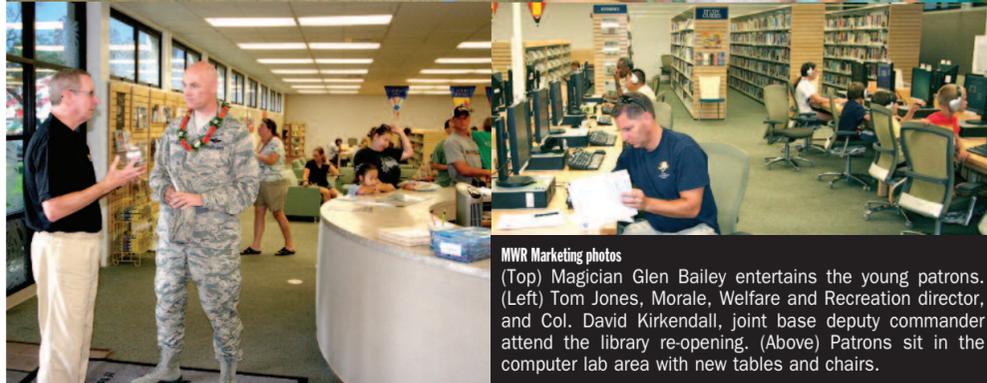

"This is really a precious resource we still have here on Hickam. There are a lot of bases that unfortunately, due to the fiscal environment, have had to close programs like this. So the fact that we were able to maintain this and upgrade this at the same time is really spectacular," said Kirkendall.

Boy Scout Andrew Lowe read from a speech by William Lyon Phelps, expressing the importance of books and the library, before Frenzel and Kirkendall cut the ribbon officially re-opening the library. Once the doors opened, patrons flocked to their favorite sections, and summer reading program participants went to the circulation desk to receive their certificate of achievement and awards.

The last renovation was around 1996, a lengthy period, but Frenzel explained that that librarians often tend not to update their facilities for long periods of time.

"Most librarians are very traditional. They stick with what is tried and true. But it was time for this library to get a new look," Frenzel said.

In comparison, other MWR facilities tend to update more often with a need to draw patrons. "You have to have an exciting new look for customers to return. For us, we need exciting, new books."

Renovations began in October of last year with cosmetic changes to the windows. By the July 20 opening, other improvements in place included all new bookshelves, all updated furniture, including new chairs and tables for the computer workstations, acoustical walls and a resurfaced circulation desk.

A new book drop for after-hours returns was also installed in the parking lot, as well as benches outside so customers can take advantage of the library's free Wi-Fi 24 hours a day.

Frenzel said patrons are already seeing the benefits of the renovations. She explained that customers like the bigger workspace at the computers and in the library overall. Changes to the layout created more space through better organization despite having the same footprint.

"We can build our collection now, especially the audio-video collection, which is becoming more popular," Frenzel said.

Realizing what customers today like to do, chairs with attached mini-tabletops and Wi-Fi allow them to bring their laptop or mobile device and sit comfortably. The one thing the staff will monitor is to make sure no one brings in food or drinks, given the new surroundings.

"We hope that people will help take care of it, to help protect our investment," said Frenzel.

The re-opening coincided with the awards day of the library's summer reading program. Patrons signed up in May and were challenged to continue reading during the summer. Customers earned rewards for reaching benchmarks over the next two months, and those who completed the program earned a certificate and were eligible to win other prizes.

Frenzel said more than 600 people signed up in the program this year, with 257 completing all the challenges. The program was divided into three groups: birth to age 7, ages 8 to 15, and 16 to adult. Magician Glen Bailey entertained the kids, and later all attendees enjoyed pizza and refreshments.

The summer reading program has been running since 2002, Frenzel's first year at the library, and has benefited from funding by the Office of the Secretary of Defense the past four years. Frenzel emphasized the purpose of the program is a simple, but important one to get people to read.

"It doesn't matter what you pick up. You read, you learn," Frenzel said.

She recalled studies that show kids who read more do better on test scores and also are better writers. The child who reads over the summer also doesn't regress as much, which helps when school begins, she said.

Frenzel thinks that all the technology available to consumers today helps get people to read.

"We make it easier for them because we offer products that match their lifestyle," she said.

Audio books on CD and on pre-loaded units allow people to listen to a story, whether sitting in traffic or doing chores around the house. Audio books are useful for someone who may have trouble reading for any reason, said Frenzel. Someone with impaired vision, is dyslexic, or just has difficulty holding the book can still enjoy the story, she emphasized.

Frenzel allowed audio books to count toward the summer reading program.

"My view is, an audio book is no less a book than a printed tome," she said.

As Frenzel oversaw the festivities, a young girl approached her. The little girl thanked Frenzel for having the program and told the librarian that she really enjoyed participating.

After thanking the girl, Frenzel said, "It's so sweet that they take the time to tell you that. All the work you do, that makes it all worthwhile."
