

110831-N-TO330-022 AYASE, Japan (Aug. 31, 2011) – Toru Fukushima, a Master Labor Contract employee for security, places a call to security dispatch from the base fuel farm office as part of an active shooter and mass casualty exercise held on Naval Air Facility (NAF) Atsugi. The training exercise was conducted to test response time and procedures among security, medical, and other participating departments. (U.S. Navy photo by Mass Communication Specialist Seaman Apprentice Vivian Blakely/Released)

110831-N-TO330-117 AYASE, Japan (Aug. 31, 2011) – Master at Arms 2nd Class Manuel Mendoza simulates a broken arm while Corpsman 2nd Class Andres Raigoza (left) and Corpsman Antonio Hernandez attend to the wound as part of an active shooter and mass casualty exercise on Naval Air Facility (NAF) Atsugi. The training exercise was conducted to test response time and procedures among security, medical, and other participating departments. (U.S. Navy photo by Mass Communication Specialist Seaman Apprentice Vivian Blakely/Released)

110831-N-TO330-272 AYASE, Japan (Aug. 31, 2011) – Master at Arms 2nd Class Joshua Stark zip ties Toru Fukushima's hands behind his back at the fuel farm office on Naval Air Facility (NAF) Atsugi as part of an active shooter and mass casualty exercise. The training exercise was conducted to test response time and procedures among security, medical, and other participating departments. (U.S. Navy photo by Mass Communication Specialist Seaman Apprentice Vivian Blakely/Released)

110831-N-TO330-429 AYASE, Japan (Aug. 31, 2011) – Capt. Eric Gardner listens as Master at Arms Chief Christopher Crane explains what has been achieved during an active shooter and mass casualty exercise held on Naval Air Facility (NAF) Atsugi. The training exercise was conducted to test response time and procedures among security, medical, and other participating departments. (U.S. Navy photo by Mass Communication Specialist Seaman Apprentice Vivian Blakely/Released)