

120428-N-RQ315-0260 (AYASE, Japan) – Visitors and residents of Naval Air Facility (NAF) Atsugi make their way to the base's flight line for a disaster response demonstration at NAF Atsugi's Spring Festival. The Spring Festival showcased the joint efforts between the U.S. military, Japanese Government, Japanese Defense Forces, and the nine cities surrounding NAF Atsugi, in disaster preparedness readiness. (U.S. Navy photo by Mass Communication Specialist 1st Class Charles Panter)

120428-N-RQ315-0314 (AYASE, Japan) – U.S. Marine from Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron (HMM) 265 sell memorabilia from their squadron to visitors of Naval Air Facility (NAF) Atsugi during the base's Spring Festival. The Spring Festival showcased the joint efforts between the U.S. military, Japanese Government, Japanese Defense Forces, and the nine cities surrounding NAF Atsugi, in disaster preparedness readiness. (U.S. Navy photo by Mass Communication Specialist 1st Class Charles Panter)

120428-N-RQ315-0559 (AYASE, Japan) – Visitors and residents of Naval Air Facility (NAF) Atsugi crowd around static display aircraft to take pictures during the base's Spring Festival. The Spring Festival showcased the joint efforts between the U.S. military, Japanese Government, Japanese Defense Forces, and the nine cities surrounding NAF Atsugi, in disaster preparedness readiness. (U.S. Navy photo by Mass Communication Specialist 1st Class Charles Panter)

120428-N-RQ315-0930 (AYASE, Japan) – Capt. Steven Wieman, commanding officer of Naval Air Facility (NAF) Atsugi, signs an autograph for a Japanese visitor to the base's Spring Festival. The Spring Festival showcased the joint efforts between the U.S. military, Japanese Government, Japanese Defense Forces, and the nine cities surrounding NAF Atsugi, in disaster preparedness readiness. (U.S. Navy photo by Mass Communication Specialist 1st Class Charles Panter)