

120611-N-FV750-025 CAMP FUJI, Japan (June 11, 2012) Master-at-Arms 1st Class Hector Medina (right) acts as a safety observer while Master-at-Arms Seaman Oscar Echeveria fires the M203 grenade launcher during a training exercise at Camp Fuji's firing range. The purpose of this training was to familiarize Naval Air Facility Atsugi Security Forces with standard Navy weaponry to ensure readiness during emergency situations. (U.S. Navy photo by Aerographers Mate 3rd Class McArthur Albert/Released)

120611-N-FV750-058 FUJI, Japan (June 11, 2012) Master-at-Arms 1st Class Hector Medina (right) conducts a safety brief during a weapons training exercise at Camp Fuji's firing range. The purpose of this training was to familiarize Naval Air Facility Atsugi Security Forces with standard Navy weaponry to ensure readiness during emergency situations. (U.S. Navy photo by Aerographers Mate 3rd Class McArthur Albert/Released)

120611-N-FV750-095 FUJI, Japan (June 11, 2012) Master-at-Arms 3rd Class Sonia Colon loads the M240 machine gun during a weapons training exercise at Camp Fuji's firing range. The weapon familiarization training was designed to familiarize Naval Air Facility Atsugi Security Forces with standard Navy weaponry to ensure readiness during emergency situations. (U.S. Navy photo by Aerographers Mate 3rd Class McArthur Albert/Released)